Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Art Unit: 1723

Applicant's election with traverse of species 1 in Paper No. 11 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that a single search would suffice for all aspects of the invention. This is not found persuasive because the examination of two patently distinct species in a single application would essentially require two searches of the prior art and thereby imposing an undue burden upon the examiner.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-2 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

On line 2 of claim 1, it is unclear as to what shape configuration "approximately tubular" implies. On line 3, "the interior" lacks antecedent basis. On lines 4-5, it is unclear as to how the central component can be "permanently retained" and "detachable" all at the same time.

Regarding claim 2, it is unclear as to what structure "interacting polygonal contours" implies.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 1723

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vokes.

With respect to claim 1, Vokes discloses a filter housing 8, 17, a central tubular component 3 which extends into the interior of the filter, the central component being disposable in an operating position by engaging a projection 15 on the filter housing and being permanently retained in the filter housing, the component being detachable from the projection in a disassembly position (e.g., by rotating 3 until the vertical portion of the slot is aligned with projection 15) in a disassembly position such that the component is non-destructively removable from the filter, wherein the component is mounted rotatably around a longitudinal axis in the filter housing, and a retaining component 6 arranged in a rotationally restrictive manner (e.g., by being frictionally and compressively engaged by parts 3, 5, and 7) within the filter housing, the retaining component being arranged to surround the central component by an interference fit (e.g., caused by compression of the packing 6) so as not to rotate in the operating position, the central component being rotatable into a disassembly position when the clamping force of the interference fit is exceeded.

Claim 2 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
